ALL ASSAILANTS OF GIRLS KNOWN, POLICE DECLARE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Evidence to establish the identity of the entire gang of hoodlums who attacked Jessie Montgomery and Jean Stanley in a shack at 1256 1/2 Howard street Wednesday night is in the hands of the police today.

Police Chief John E. "Doc" Kravusky, brother of Edward ("K. O.") Kravusky, already in jail, and Lester Dorman, the detectives working on the case say that they know the names of the hoodlums and that arrests will be made within a short time. Determination that nothing shall halt the speedy prosecution of all concerned is expressed by the police and district attorneys.

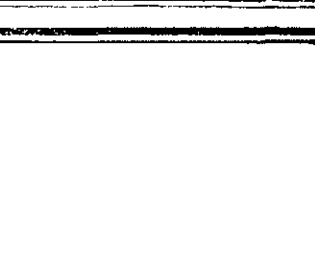

An announcement was made that neither of the Kravuskys, professional pugilists, will be able to ap-

Auto Victim Appeals From Justice Court

JOHNSON has appealed to the Superior court from the Justice court of Elmira township on its judgment against him for damages in amount of $250 in the case of E. J. Johnson vs. Matilda J. Lurvey and R. L. Lurvey.

The plaintiff filed a suit against the defendants in the Justice court for the sum of $235, alleged to have been suffered by reason of negligent driving of an automobile by the defendants.

Plaintiff alleged that Mrs. Lurvey was on the wrong side of the road and to avoid an accident he was forced twelve feet off the highway.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easy to prepare, and saves a lot of money.

If you have a severe cough or chest trouble accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficulty in breathing, or if your child wakes up crying at night with a cough, you can get relief by using this reliable old one-made cough remedy. Any drug store can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar. Or you can use molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really reliable cough medicine. It is good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and soothes the inflamed membranes that irritate the throat and bronchial tubes. In such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing. It is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the most known means of overcoming coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't let anyone else tell you. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Wayne, Ind.

URN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand. It is a recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering sage and the messy mixing of it. All drug stores sell the ready-made mixture, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. It is very popular because it does not irritate the scalp. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray has disappeared, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound, is that, by its beautiful darkening the hair a few applications, it also promotes that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. The Last Leaf

In a little district west of Washington Square the streets have for crazy and broken themselves into small strips called "places." These "places" make strange angles and curves. One street crosses itself a time or two. An artist once discovered a valuable possibility in this street. Suppose a collector with a bill for paints, paper and canvas should, in traversing this route, suddenly meet himself coming back, without a cent having been paid on account!

So, to quaint old Greenwich Village the people soon came prowling, hunting for north windows and eighteenth-century gables and Dutch attics and low roofs. Then they imported some pewter mugs and a chafing dish or two from Sixth avenue and became a "colony."

At the top of a squat, three-story brick Sue and Johnny had their studio. "Johnny" was familiarly known as "the artist," and "Sue" as "the model." They had met at the table of a cafe on an Elgin street, "Delmonico's," and found their tastes in art, color, style and brushwork so congenial that the joint studio resulted.

That was in May. In November a cold, unseen stranger, whom the doctors called Pneumonia, had taken the colony, touching one here and there with his icy fingers. Over on the east side this ravager strode boldly, smiting his victims by scores. But here, in the quiet, sheltered maze of the narrow and moss-grown "places,"

Pneumonia was not what you would call a chivalrous old gentleman. He was a little woman with blood thinned by California zephyrs was hardly fair game for the red-tailed, short-breathed old duffer. But Johnny, he smote; and she lay, scarcely moving, on her painted iron bedstead, looking through the small Dutch window-panes at the blank side of the next brick house.

One morning the busy doctor invited Sue into the hallway with a shaggy, gray eyebrow. "She has one chance in ten—let us say, ten," he said, as he shook down the mercury in his clinical thermometer. "And that chance is for her to want to live. This way people have of lining-up on the side of the undertaker makes the entire population look silly. Your little lady has made up her mind that she's not going to get well. Has she anything on her mind?"

"She—she wanted to paint the Bay of Naples some day," said Sue. "Paint?—Losh! Has she anything on her mind worth thinking about twice—a man, for instance?"

"A man?" said Sue, with a jealous harp twang in her voice. "Is a man worth—but, no, doctor; there is nothing of the kind."

"Well, it is the weakness, then," said the doctor, "I will do all that science, so far as it may filter through my efforts, can accomplish. But whenever my patient begins to count the carriages in her funeral procession I subtract 50 per cent from the curative power of medicines. If you will get her to ask me questions about the new winter styles in cloak sleeves I will promise you a good chance for her, instead of one-in-ten."

After the doctor had gone Sue went into the workroom and cried a Japanese napkin to a pulp. Then she swished it into Johnny's room with her drawing board, whistling ragtime.

Johnny lay, securely making a ripple under the bedclothes, with her face toward the window. Sue stopped whistling, thinking she was asleep. She arranged her board and began a pen-and-ink drawing to illustrate a magazine story. Young artists must have their way to Art by drawing pictures for magazine stories that young authors write to pave their way to Literature.

As Sue was sketching a pair of elegant horse-show riding trousers and a monocle on the figure of the hero, an Idaho cowboy, she heard a low sound, several times repeated. She looked out the window and counted—counting backward.

"Twelve," she said, and a little later "eleven," and then "ten," and "nine," and then "eight," and "seven," almost together.

Sue looked solicitously out the window. What was there to count? There was only a bare, dreary yard to be seen, and the blank side of the brick house twenty feet away. An old, old ivy vine, gnarled and decayed at the roots, climbed half way up the brick wall. The cold breath of autumn had stricken its leaves from the vine until its skeleton branches clung, almost bare, to the crumbling bricks.

"What is it, dear?" asked Sue. "Six," said Johnny, in almost a whisper. "They're falling faster now. Three days ago there were almost a hundred. It made my head ache to count them. But now it's easy. There goes another one. There are only five left now."

"Five what, dear. Tell your Sue," Sue asked. "On the ivy vine. Within the last one falls I must go, too. I've known that for three days. Didn't the doctor tell you?"

"Oh, I never heard of such nonsense," complained Sue, with magnificent scorn. "What have old ivy leaves to do with your getting well? And you used to love that vine so, you naughty girl. Don't be a goosey. Why, the doctor told me this morning that your chances for getting well real soon were—let's see exactly what he said—he said the chances were ten to one! Why, that's almost as good a chance as we have in New York when we ride on the street cars or walk past a new building. Try to take some broth now, and let Sue go back to her drawing, so she can sell the editor man with it, and buy port wine for her sick child, and pork chops for her greedy self."

"You needn't get any more wine," said Johnny, keeping her eyes fixed out the window. "There goes another. No, I don't want any broth. That leaves us four. I want to see the last one fall before it gets dark. Then I'll go, too."

"Johnny, dear," said Sue, bending over her, "will you promise me to keep you closed, and not look out the window until I am done working? I must hand those drawings in by tomorrow. I need the light, or I would draw the shade down."

"Couldn't you draw in the other room?" asked Johnny, coldly. "I'd rather be here by you," said Sue. "Besides, I don't want you to keep looking at those silly ivy leaves."

"Tell me as soon as you have finished," said Johnny, coldly. "I must go to bed now," said Sue. "I must be in bed by ten. I'll not be gone a minute. Don't try to move till I come back."

Old Behrman was a painter who lived on the ground floor of the building. He was past sixty and had a Michael Angelo's Moses beard curling down from the head of a satyr along the body of an imp. Behrman was a failure in art. For the most part he wielded the brush without getting near enough to touch the hem of his Mistress's robe. He had been always about to paint a masterpiece, but never yet he had painted nothing except now and then a dab in the line of commerce or advertising. He earned a little by serving as a model to some young artists in the colony who could not pay the price of a professional. He drank gin to excess, and still talked of his coming masterpiece. For the most part he was a fierce little old man, who scoffed terribly at softness in any one, and who regarded himself as special mastiff-in-waiting to protect the two young artists in the studio above.

Sue found Behrman smelling strongly of juniper berries in his dimly lighted den below. In one corner was a blank canvas on an easel that had been waiting there for twenty-five years to receive the first line of the masterpiece. She told him of Johnny's fancy, and how she feared she would, indeed, light and fragile as a leaf herself, float away when her slight hold upon the world grew weaker.

Old Behrman, with his red eyes plainly streaming, showed his contempt and derision for such idiotic imaginings.

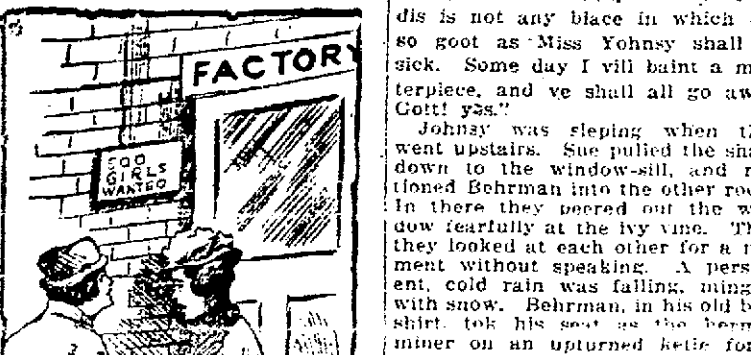

"Vass!" he cried. "Is there people in the world with der polishes to die because leads dey drop off from a confounded vine? I haf not heard of such a thing. No, I will not base as a model for your fool hermit-dunderhead. Vy do you allow dot silly business to come in der pain of her? Ash, dot poor little Miss Johnny."

"She is very ill and weak," said Sue, "and the fever has left her mind morbid and full of strange fancies."

NOVELTY STORY a day

Very well, Mr. Behrman, if you do not care to pose for me, you needn't.

"Say, you said the girl was posing for you in there after job?"

"But I think you are a horrid old—old flibbertigibbet!"

"You are just like a woman!" yelled Behrman. "Who said I will not pose? Go on. I come mit you."

For half an hour I had been trying to say dot I am ready to pose. Gott! dis is not any place in which one so good as Miss Johnny shall lie sick. Some day I will paint a masterpiece, and ve shall all go away. Gott! yea."

Johnny was sleeping when they went upstairs. Sue pulled the shade down to the window-sill, and motioned Behrman into the other room. In there they peered out the window fearfully at the ivy vine. Then they looked at each other for a moment without speaking. A persistent, cold rain was falling, mingled with snow. Behrman, in his old blue shirt, took his seat as the hermit-miser on an upturned knee for a rock.

When Sue awoke from an hour's sleep the next morning she found Johnny with dull, wide-open eyes staring at the drawn green shade.

"Pull it up; I want to see," she ordered, in a whisper.

But, lo! after the beating rain and fierce gusts of wind that had endured through the livelong night, there yet stood out against the bright wall one ivy leaf. It was the last on the vine. Still dark green its stem, but with its serrated edges lined with the yellow of dissolution and decay, it hung bravely from a branch some twenty feet above the ground.

"It is the last one," said Johnny. "I thought it would surely fall during the night, and I shall die at the same time."

"Dear, dear!" said Sue, leaning her worn face down to the pillow. "She's out of danger. You've won. Nutrition and care now—that's all."

And that afternoon Sue came to the bed where Johnny lay, contentedly knitting a very blue and very useless, woolen shoulder scarf, and put one arm around her, pillows and all.

"I have something to tell you, white mouse," she said. "Mr. Behrman died of pneumonia today in the hospital. He was ill only two days. The janitor found him on the morning of the first day in his room shoes and clothing were wet through and icy cold. They couldn't imagine where he had been on such a dreadful night. And then they found a lantern still lighted, and a ladder that had been dragged from its place, and some scattered brushes, and a palette with green and yellow colors mixed on it, and—look out the window, dear, at the last ivy leaf on the wall. Didn't you wonder why it never fluttered or moved when the wind blew? Ah, darling, it's Behrman's masterpiece—it's painted in there the night that the last leaf fell."

(The End.)

Bank Clearings are the Pulse of Business

A BUSINESS MAN should watch the bank clearings of the nation and of the state week by week, and those of his community, day by day. These figures can generally be found on the Financial and Business page of this paper.

For bank clearings—that is, the volume of checks passing through the financial institutions day by day—are an indication of the total volume of business transacted.

When these statistics show a shrinkage week by week, it means that a let-up in business has set in. Similarly, when increases are chronicled, business is on the up-grade.

Many retail merchants, dependent upon general prosperity of the community, can actually estimate the proportion their sales volume should bear to the total bank clearings of the community. If sales volume shows a steady decrease when bank clearings show a steady increase such a merchant can know that something is wrong—and locate the trouble before it is too late.

An even firmer grasp of the situation is obtained by comparing proportional increases, or decreases, in one community, with those of another in order to understand the business situation in other communities.

In so many ways does the volume of bank clearings have a definite bearing on the success of your business that it is well for every business man to determine just how these totals affect him, and then to read the signs of the ever changing times in these totals.

GIRL'S DASHING HERO'S DECLARED "DEAF" BEGGAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Lillian Geraldine Leitch Van Doye discovered, she charges, that the dashing hero, son of a multi-millionaire father of New York and descendant of a famous Knickerbocker family, whom she believed she had met after a romantic courtship, was in truth only a Leslie Sheldon, professional beggar of San Francisco, who fled to Hotel Somerset and summoned a lawyer. A suit to annul her marriage has been filed.

The disillusioned bride is 17 years old. June brought her from the old home in Virginia to California. A smile at a handsome stranger in a cafe, a word, an invitation, and the fancy of the romantic young girl was touched. James Robert Van Doye was an ardent wooer and they were married soon.

Hard times came. Clothes and shoes needed replacing. The romance took flight. The bride, according to her suit, found among her husband's possessions the tell-tale sign: "I am deaf and dumb. Alms for pity's sake, please."

When she fled, her husband followed. He persistently endeavored to persuade her that everything was all right. But the young woman refused to listen further to his suit. She placed her case in the hands of Attorney J. G. Reiser. According to the complaint Van Doye is J. Leslie Sheldon, whose business it is to pretend to be deaf and dumb.

Mrs. Norris Says She Supported Husband

Mrs. Betty H. Norris expended between $5000 and $6000 a year from her private funds to maintain the home of herself and husband, Joseph Norris, in Vernon Heights, according to her testimony yesterday before Judge J. T. Trabucchi. A petition for permanent maintenance was being heard. The cause was brought to Wednesday. Not only has she supported herself for the past six years, Mrs. Norris declared, but she paid for her husband's clothes, the bills of the midwife, her mother and grocer. She produced a pile of canceled checks to support her statements.

That Norris was "a well man when he left whisky alone" was admitted by the defense. A commitment of Attorney M. C. Chapman for his client that since a paralytic stroke his health had been poor. She admitted that she was anxious for her husband to get a share of the alleged $50,000 estate of his father, but declared that while he was in New York on the business he occupied expensive apartments and was otherwise extravagant.

Mrs. Norris is the mother of John McMillin of London, England, and Mrs. John Galloway, formerly Miss Elizabeth McMillin of San Francisco.

New Waterfront Strike Threatened

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Clashes between holders of red cards and those who work under the new waterfront agreement, according to a high in the councils of both unions. A crisis was precipitated last evening when a gang of red carded men came to work to take the places of that number of red card holders. In a fight that followed Charles Pierce, 317 Fifty-third street, a blue card worker who refused to go on strike, was injured. T. A. Maloney, president of the Riggers and Stevedores Union said that while there has been no strike call it would appear that one is not far distant.

Interment was in St. Mary's Cathedral. Mrs. Hasselbacher died yesterday following a brief illness. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Louise Kohler, and niece, Mrs. Charles Jurgens.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and a well-known authority, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force their way to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.—Advertisement.

Hero Fate To Be Topic For Sermon

"Lynman Abbott in giving a special case of a Brooklyn fireman who gave his life in saving a man from a burning building, declares that this act of heroic self-sacrifice thereby insures salvation to the fireman. Doctor Reginald Campbell holds that a soldier yielding his life in the trenches for the safety of humanity, by this noble act saves his own soul. John Hay held to the same view about Jim Blodgett who stuck to his post until the boat burned down, but not until he had run her ashore and saved the lives of the passengers but did not save himself. Are Abbott and Campbell and Hay correct in their views?" Rev. John Snape will discuss these serious practical questions in his sermon tomorrow morning at the First Baptist church.

The theme of the evening sermon will be "What Makes a Man Profitable?" Is it the Almighty Dollar or what? Preceding this address, the church has secured Charles H. Victor, manager of the Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co., to give a ten-minute address on "The Church and Business Methods." These Sunday evening special features are proving to be a valuable asset to the service.

Elaborate Production to Be Given in Honor of First Congregational Church Anniversary

In connection with the celebration of the Sixtieth Anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational church and the tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims, a Mayflower pageant, "The Pilgrim and the Book," written by Percy MacKaye, will be presented in the church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The story of the play is that of a Pilgrim who, 300 years ago came to the new land of opportunity and freedom, only to find the powers of evil, the spirit of persecution here existing in the temptation to do evil. He is freed from the bondage of this new imprisonment by the spirits Revelation and Laws. Following the freeing the Prophets speak and sing their healing ministry.

The second part carries the action into the New Testament with the Shophers, Disciples and Apostles, the bearers of the spiritual comfort and power and the climax of the play is in the founding of a new "Commonwealth of State."

Some of the principal characters taking part are: The Pilgrim, Richard Chamberlain, Salinas, Edmund De Freitas, Revelation, Miss Ruth Riley; The Old Testament groups are led by the characters Moses, David and Isaiah, played by M. M. Davidson, Shiraz Mackay and R. K. Ham, respectively. C. C. Morse is the Angel of the Star, while St. John is represented by Paul Van Horn, and St. Paul, as spokesman, by William H. Hogue, representing persecution, and the Fear of Death, will be played by Vernon Parker. The spirit of the Old and New Testaments are represented by two little girls as cherubs, Sarah Patrick and Bernice Sykes.

The entire cast, which includes 70 players, is being directed by Rev. Fred W. Morrison, assistant pastor of the church. The costuming of the

Anniversary Of Church Celebrated

The First Congregational church, which is celebrating its sixtieth anniversary, gave a reception to which all citizens were invited, and from 5 until 11 o'clock the church parlors, reception rooms and dining room were crowded. In addition to a short musical program there were two brief addresses, one by a "son of the church," Judge Warren Olney Jr., the other by Rev. James L. Gordon of the First Congregational church of San Francisco, that church having been organized in 1860 and its pastor, Rev. E. S. Lacey, to organize the new church in Oakland.

It was found that many descendants of the Mayflower are in the congregation and all the principal characters of the Plymouth colony were to be seen at the reception in the evening. Several tableaux displayed scenes from colonial life, but the refreshments were not the simple and hard eaten of the olden day. In the receiving line were Judge and Mrs. Olney, the daughter of a former pastor, Rev. J. K. McLean, Rev. J. L. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Ham, Rev. and Mrs. P. Van Horn. The large corps of ushers was directed by F. E. Barbour, one of a former pastor. The events of the month coincident with the Tercentenary of the Pilgrims, is under the charge of a large committee headed by Arthur W. Moore. The events of the next week are Church School anniversary on Sunday with an elaborate production of "The Pilgrim and the Book," Anniversary Prayer meeting Wednesday evening, and Anniversary of the Missionary Society on Friday afternoon.

THE ROD OF IRON
A Dependable Support
By DR. JAMES E. TALMAGE
Of the Council of the Twelve, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; Salt Lake City, Utah.
Note: For free copies of other articles of this series, send request to the author.

Unto Levi, a prophet of Jerusalem, who by Divine command had gone with his family from the city into the wilderness, came the word of the Lord in vision.

The man stood by a tree, the fruit of which he found to be sweet, and desirable to make one happy; for, as he ate of it his soul was filled with peace and joy unspeakable. The tree, separated it from a spacious plain wherein great concourses of people had gathered; flowed a turbid river of muddy, filthy water. The head of the stream was visible in the distance, and from this to the tree, alongside the river's treacherous bank, ran a narrow path, paralleling which was a rod of iron, firmly secured, and so placed that one could hold to it while treading the pathway.

Numerous people were observed moving toward the head of the stream, striving to lay hold on the rod; but the dense mists of darkness, and, enshrouded them, so that many became bewildered, and, abandoning their purpose of reaching the tree, were lost in the murky depths of the river. Of the more faithful and determined, he saw and testified:

"And it came to pass that I beheld others pressing forward, and they came forth and caught hold of the end of the rod of iron; and they did press forward through the mist of darkness, clinging to the rod of iron, even until they did come forth and partake of the fruit of the tree." (Book of Mormon, 1 Nephi 8:24; read chaps. 8 and 15.)

An explication of the vision was given through inspiration. The tree shown to the prophet was the tree of life, and its fruit the salvation of the soul. Of the rod of iron it is written: "That it was the word of God; and whoso would hearken unto the word of God, and would hold fast unto it, they would never perish; neither could the temptations and the fiery darts of the adversary overpower them unto blindness, to lead them away to destruction." (1 Nephi 12:24.)

The river of foul waters typified the great gulf separating "the wicked from the tree of life, and also from the saints of God," and the state of loss and condemnation, which shall be the inevitable fate of the wilfully and unrepentant wicked.

The present is an age of whirl and swirl, in which many reach out confusedly and despairingly for support, buffeted by the waves of theological dogma, swept hither and thither by the creeds and precepts of men, blown about by the winds of conflicting doctrines, bewildered by the mists of darkness, which are "the temptations of the devil, which blindeth the eyes and hardeneth the hearts of the children of men." (12:17.)

The rod of iron is the Word of God unto man, the same yesterday, today, and forever. Faith in God, and in His Son Jesus Christ as the Redeemer and Savior of men, and contrite repentance of sin mark the beginning of the narrow path. We must hold fast to the rod, for the mists of darkness are dense and confusing; and it is easy to let go, to slip and slide and fall.

But with firm hand on the rod, steadfast feet on the path, we are led into the clear and purifying waters of baptism, without whose invigorating ablation we are unable to progress. Cleansed and strengthened we press onward through the mists of darkness, and by the enlightening baptism of the Spirit, which is administered by the authority laying on of hands, we reach the tree, entitled to live thereafter gladdened and made strong by its sweet and nourishing bounty.

The rod of iron is still in place, fast, secure, a dependable support for every soul who strives with full purpose of heart to reach the tree of life. Clinging thereto we make sure progress, though the filthy waters beat hard by the narrow path. Let go, and we slip, then slide, and if we fall through strenuous effort and the aid of an outstretched helping hand to regain our grasp, we are swept away, carried by the current of confusion and uncertainty, perhaps into the engulfing Charybdis of fatalism or the dread Scylla of atheistical despair.

Mark you, the rod is unbreakable, unchangeable, immovable. The pathway endures, is never in need of repairs by addition, new construction, or reinforcement. These are no product of man's skill. It is sadly true, however, that men have essayed to make roads, the while proclaiming that their broad highways lead to the tree of life. But never has one such thoroughfare been constructed to the promised destination, nor can it be. For a time these man-made roads are alluring in their macadamized smoothness, but they crumble and are worn into pitfalls, unsightly and dangerous.

"Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matt. 7:13, 14.)

PASTOR TO TALK ON SUBJECT OF LIFE TO COME

Rev. Frank M. Sisley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will occupy the pulpit during both services tomorrow and will speak at the morning hour on the subject "Route to the Life to Come." It is because he will carry out the thought that the life of every Christian is the life of victory over the enemies of righteousness.

In the evening Dr. Sisley will preach on the subject "Why I Believe in Heaven." At this time he will answer numerous questions concerning life after death, dealing extensively with an allegation which has been advanced that life after death is a myth.

The Temple Choir will give a special musical program in connection with the evening sermon.

Numerous people were observed moving toward the head of the stream, striving to lay hold on the rod; but the dense mists of darkness, and, enshrouded them, so that many became bewildered, and, abandoning their purpose of reaching the tree, were lost in the murky depths of the river. Of the more faithful and determined, he saw and testified:

"And it came to pass that I beheld others pressing forward, and they came forth and caught hold of the end of the rod of iron; and they did press forward through the mist of darkness, clinging to the rod of iron, even until they did come forth and partake of the fruit of the tree." (Book of Mormon, 1 Nephi 8:24; read chaps. 8 and 15.)

An explication of the vision was given through inspiration. The tree shown to the prophet was the tree of life, and its fruit the salvation of the soul. Of the rod of iron it is written: "That it was the word of God; and whoso would hearken unto the word of God, and would hold fast unto it, they would never perish; neither could the temptations and the fiery darts of the adversary overpower them unto blindness, to lead them away to destruction." (1 Nephi 12:24.)

The river of foul waters typified the great gulf separating "the wicked from the tree of life, and also from the saints of God," and the state of loss and condemnation, which shall be the inevitable fate of the wilfully and unrepentant wicked.

The present is an age of whirl and swirl, in which many reach out confusedly and despairingly for support, buffeted by the waves of theological dogma, swept hither and thither by the creeds and precepts of men, blown about by the winds of conflicting doctrines, bewildered by the mists of darkness, which are "the temptations of the devil, which blindeth the eyes and hardeneth the hearts of the children of men." (12:17.)

The rod of iron is the Word of God unto man, the same yesterday, today, and forever. Faith in God, and in His Son Jesus Christ as the Redeemer and Savior of men, and contrite repentance of sin mark the beginning of the narrow path. We must hold fast to the rod, for the mists of darkness are dense and confusing; and it is easy to let go, to slip and slide and fall.

But with firm hand on the rod, steadfast feet on the path, we are led into the clear and purifying waters of baptism, without whose invigorating ablation we are unable to progress. Cleansed and strengthened we press onward through the mists of darkness, and by the enlightening baptism of the Spirit, which is administered by the authority laying on of hands, we reach the tree, entitled to live thereafter gladdened and made strong by its sweet and nourishing bounty.

The rod of iron is still in place, fast, secure, a dependable support for every soul who strives with full purpose of heart to reach the tree of life. Clinging thereto we make sure progress, though the filthy waters beat hard by the narrow path. Let go, and we slip, then slide, and if we fall through strenuous effort and the aid of an outstretched helping hand to regain our grasp, we are swept away, carried by the current of confusion and uncertainty, perhaps into the engulfing Charybdis of fatalism or the dread Scylla of atheistical despair.

Mark you, the rod is unbreakable, unchangeable, immovable. The pathway endures, is never in need of repairs by addition, new construction, or reinforcement. These are no product of man's skill. It is sadly true, however, that men have essayed to make roads, the while proclaiming that their broad highways lead to the tree of life. But never has one such thoroughfare been constructed to the promised destination, nor can it be. For a time these man-made roads are alluring in their macadamized smoothness, but they crumble and are worn into pitfalls, unsightly and dangerous.

"Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matt. 7:13, 14.)

Do You Know the Bible?

By J. WILLSON ROY

There are incidents and persons chronicled in the Bible with which many of us doubtless know little or nothing, or perhaps we have forgotten them.

The following are the questions for today; the answers will appear next Saturday:

- Today's Questions
- 61—What is the most ancient war on record?
  - 62—The names of only three women besides Eve who lived before the flood are recorded in the Bible; give them and state who they were.
  - 63—Where do we read of a colored woman aiding and abetting the escape of two fugitives?
  - 64—What queen sent a message under a false signature?
  - 65—What blind prophet received a disguised queen?
  - 66—What king feigned insanity in an enemy's country?
  - 67—To whom was applied the military title of general?
  - 68—What king was slain by a prophet?
  - 69—Name a child whom God heard and answered when crying?
  - 70—To whom was applied the epithet "mad fellow," and by whom?

- Answers to Last Questions
- 61—Kings 16:23
  - 62—1 Chronicles 1:21
  - 63—1 Chronicles 12:12
  - 64—2 Chronicles 11:21
  - 65—Judges 20:16
  - 66—2 Samuel 12:9
  - 67—1 Chronicles 13:32
  - 68—Genesis 4:21
  - 69—1 Chronicles 12:33

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

For his sermon tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church of Berkeley, Rev. Francis E. Russell has chosen the subject "The God of Jacob." He will define these three stages as being faith, love and obedience, emphasizing the thought that each is necessary for true association with God.

God, and a greater understanding of His teachings.

In the evening Dr. Russell has chosen for his theme "The God of Jacob." Using this theme Dr. Russell will strive to dispel the pessimism which is rapidly becoming evident in the writings of the great thinkers, by showing how faith in the God of Jacob and the God of today represents salvation for the world.

TELLS OF WORK OF CONVENTION AT TORONTO

The young people of the San Francisco Bay Baptist Association met this week in the First Baptist church of Alameda. Rev. J. N. Garst, pastor of the Twenty-third Avenue Baptist church of Oakland and Moderator of the convention presided at the meeting.

One of the most interesting features on the program was the report of Rev. Mr. Garst on the activities of the B. Y. P. U. convention which was held in Toronto, Canada, during July of this year. Mr. Garst was a delegate on the convention and gave a very interesting report on the happenings, outlining the recommendations which were made by the various societies throughout the United States and Canada.

"Spiritual Culture—Christianize" will be the subject of Mr. Garst's discourse tomorrow at the Twenty-third Avenue church. The sermon tomorrow and its sister sermon, preached last Sunday, are said to give the key to the direction which the activities of the church are to take during the ensuing year.

"Father's Hungry Boy" will be the subject of the evening service. Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. will be held at the usual hours. Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening.

The Board of Deacons and Deaconesses will meet on Friday evening, with E. R. Travis, the new chairman, presiding.

CALVARY CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. W. A. Schwinig, pastor of Calvary Congregational church, will speak tomorrow morning on "Making an Investment." This sermon is preparatory to the "Every Member Canvass" which begins Sunday, December 5, and closes the following Sunday. Special music will be rendered by the church choir.

The evening service will blend with the union evangelistic meetings which the church is holding in conjunction with the church of the United Brethren. Rev. Schwinig will preach the evening sermon on the subject "Three Steps to Being Lost."

The Y. P. S. C. E. will meet in the church at 6:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Alford as hostess.

On December 2 the Woman's Association plans to hold a bazaar in the church. Fancy work, home made candies and other home cooked delicacies will be placed on sale at that time. The affair will close with a varied program of music and entertainment which is being prepared by a committee at this time.

Silver Jubilee of Priest Will Be Celebrated

Rev. Alfred Sousa, who is soon to celebrate his twenty-fifth anniversary as a Catholic Priest.

A meeting of the clergy of St. Leander's parish was held in the Leander residence last Thursday evening for the purpose of making arrangements for the celebration of Rev. Alfred Sousa's silver anniversary as a Catholic priest.

December 1 will mark the completion of Rev. Sousa's twenty-fifth year of active service as a priest, and it is planned to hold the anniversary celebration on the evening of that date.

The affair will be held at Conventville.

Rev. Sousa has been in charge of Conventville parish for the past few years, but was formerly assistant pastor of St. Leander's Catholic church.

Always an active churchman, Rev. Sousa is now bending every effort toward securing funds sufficient to erect a new church building at Conventville to replace the old building which was destroyed by fire some time ago.

WHAT SCHEME NOW?

It is reported that Japan will informally bring up the question of racial equality at the present session of the League of Nations at Geneva. Not with the idea of pressing the discussion to a conclusion, or really debating it all, but with the purpose of reminding the nations represented that Japan has not forgotten this question, nor has any intention of permitting it to lie indefinitely in the discard.

Viscount Ishii, former ambassador to the United States, is the head of the Japanese delegation at the Geneva meeting. He is the same who concluded a special agreement with Secretary of State Lansing in 1917, but who kept from Mr. Lansing knowledge that Japan had just concluded secretly special agreements with Great Britain, France and Italy for the disposition of the former German possessions in the Pacific; the same Ishii who played the scurry trick of exacting the understanding that the agreement with Mr. Lansing remain secret for five days and then employed those five days to read the Japanese interpretation of the agreement to the Chinese government.

It is not possible to say at this time what the ulterior purpose of Viscount Ishii may be in bringing the race equality question up, even in an informal and diffident manner, at the meeting of the League of Nations. But that there is some ulterior motive need not be seriously doubted. The Japanese government and its representatives are fully aware of the fact that the question of racial equality, or rather inequality, is non-existent among governments. So far as racial considerations are considered, one race is entitled to and is accorded as much respect and privilege in the comity of nations as the other.

But there does exist the fact of racial prejudice, so-called, which is an emotion of the mind of peoples. And being such it cannot be changed or altered by any dicta of the League of Nations or any statute of government. It is based upon differences of moral character, religious, social, business and governmental practices which characterize particular races. A people is measured not so much by its race as it is by the standard of civilization which it exemplifies, what it has given to the intellectual, moral and spiritual progress of man. Japan is not by any means the least admirable of all the non-Caucasian races.

Japan is superior to some non-Caucasian races and by many tests is superior to peoples of the Caucasian race. Thus to argue for race equality might be to aim at a lower instead of a higher place in the wide-flung castles of the earth's inhabitants.

At the Versailles peace conference the Japanese delegation introduced this same question and contended for "racial equality" for several sessions and then let it rest, according to program. But when the question of disposing of the Shantung leased territory came up Japan insisted upon being allowed to retain this territory and inasmuch as she had seemingly been defeated on the race question her claim on Shantung was allowed. She cunningly represented that she had asked for only two things at the peace conference—racial equality and Shantung—and having been denied one she could not calmly contemplate being denied the other. President Wilson "fell" for the trick and Shantung was handed over to Japan.

At Geneva the same tactics are apparently being repeated. But what is Japan's second object? It is usually the one she places most value on.

THE USELESS TOLL.

Three men were killed Thursday in the Los Angeles automobile races—two of them famous drivers of racing cars, Gaston Chevrolet and Edward O'Donnell. They had been in many grueling races before and had many close calls. But there is a limit to the chances one may take with death and finally they succumbed.

Automobile racing has ceased to be of much value to the automobile industry. It calls some brief attention to a special make of car or a brand of tires, but the very thing they exploit to the limit, high speed, is forbidden by law and common sense. There are many indications that the speed now legalized on the highways and streets will be further decreased before long. Not only is the consideration of public safety working in this direction, but the scarcity of fuel and the necessity of fixing a speed that will get the largest mileage out of a gallon of gasoline will, engineers predict, call for a more moderate speed.

But still automobile contests are held to test human and mechanical endurance, when it is absolutely certain that tragedy will result when the limit of endurance is passed. The public which likes to get its thrills out of witnessing tragedies is largely responsible for the deaths in Los Angeles and those that have occurred elsewhere in racing meets. If the public did not patronize the races the selfish promoters would not stage them.

"STUDYING THE IMMIGRANTS"

The Commissioner General of Immigration, Hon. Anthony Caminetti of California, has been sent to Europe by the Secretary of Labor to study conditions there as affecting emigration to the United States. He is accompanied by an official of the Public Health Service, who will also investigate health conditions at emigration centers.

According to an official announcement, it is the idea of the Department of Labor to initiate a study of European conditions affecting emigration to the United States, which will ultimately be followed by a system which will serve to reduce to the minimum the number of emigrants who come to American ports only to find, after examination at an United States immigration station, that they cannot be admitted.

The Secretary of Labor says he is anxious that there should be a cessation of the "causes of the hardships resulting from individuals in Europe or elsewhere breaking up their homes, selling their belongings and expending the proceeds for transportation to this country, only to find on arrival at our ports that they are not admissible under our laws and must return to their former abode." It is his opinion that this "tragedy" might be eliminated or reduced by preventing the emigration of inadmissibles at the source.

There is much of sound sense to this proposal. But it would seem that a larger measure of practical success might be brought to it by bringing the governments of foreign lands where the prospective emigrant dwells into cooperation with the idea. In fact, it is difficult to see how it can be worked without such cooperation, and once the principles of cooperation in the examination of prospective emigrants was accepted by the foreign governments it would be unnecessary for this government to maintain any agency abroad. Naturally the foreign government would be loathe to admit that it was not sufficiently acquainted with the immigration laws of this country and it ought to be unwilling to see a sort of foreign espionage bureau set up within its territory.

If this assumption is correct, it would seem that the purpose which the Secretary of Labor has in mind, and in the interest of which the Commissioner of Immigration is now touring Europe, could be achieved in another way. It ought to suffice for the government at Washington to demand of the foreign governments whose nationals emigrate to this country in steady streams to segregate the inadmissibles at home and forbid their taking passage to this country.

But then Mr. Caminetti probably feels in need of a restful trip to Europe after his long controversy with Assistant Secretary of Labor Post, defender of the alien radicals, and, as his tenure of office is drawing to a close, it was necessary for him to take the trip now or not at all.

Wheat has now dropped below $1.50 a bushel on the Chicago grain exchange and in some sections of the country is selling at considerably less. In Washington, for example, it is quoted at $1.30. This is an unpleasant answer to the Middle West wheat growers who entered into an agreement to keep their wheat off the market until it brought $3, but it is just what this newspaper and some other observers warned them to expect. But with wheat selling at half the prevailing price of a year ago, sugar at one-third the price of four months ago, eggs somewhat cheaper and water as cheap as ever, the bakers are still charging the peak war time price of seventeen cents a loaf for bread.

Since the recent prohibition election in Scotland they are saying, "Hootch. Mon," over there.

FRENCH VIEWS OF HARDING.

It is necessary to distinguish between the war policy and the peace policy of President Wilson. It is the latter which the American people have rejected at the presidential election. The results, from an international point of view, will not be slow to manifest themselves when Mr. Harding enters the White House on the 4th of next March and takes up his official duties as President of the Republic. Our readers know his programme, and especially his view about the League of Nations, to which he is opposed in its present form, but which he accepts in principle subject to certain conditions. It is not impossible to reconcile the League of Nations as created by the Peace Conference and his conception of an association of peoples to maintain peace. We are firmly convinced that these two will be reconciled. The United States having taken such a part in the war, cannot remain indifferent to the great political problems with which Europe is confronted, and the whole world besides, because for every nation, however great, a policy of isolation is suicidal in the present state of international affairs. From our French point of view we trust to the political common sense and wisdom of Mr. Harding, as we trust in the feelings of friendship which he has constantly shown for France. Being the chosen head of the American people, he will not allow to be compromised the great work of human solidarity which was achieved on the battlefields of France and Belgium by the common effort of our soldiers and those of free America—Le Temps, Paris.

NOTES and COMMENT

Another death is recorded by accidental discharge of firearms. A Los Angeles child of seven, "playing with a rifle," pulled the trigger and the gun went off, killing the child's mother instantly. A loaded rifle would not seem to be an ideal plaything for a child of seven, but people have their own way of diverting children.

Three hundred prisoners in City Jail are very fortunate, and it is not in spirit of corping that the opinion is hazarded that very many hundreds out of jail were unable, at prevailing prices, to buy a turkey dinner day.

It may not be in order to unload upon the custom of feeding up those who find themselves in jail on fast days, because in the final analysis it is due to a generous impulse; but when the idea is extended to im-pounded animals it requires an effort to fall in with it. A despatch from Portland tells of a Thanksgiving dinner being given the animals in the city pound.

The United States Government appears to be stalling in the matter of recognizing the Mexican government. That may be one of the legacies it is carefully leaving to the incoming administration. It has made such a mess of Mexican affairs that it might be in a way justified in such action, especially as the ruins are to be transferred so soon.

Severe condemnation of having is frequently seen in individual expressions and righteous editorials; but a Southern gentleman, a graduate from a Southern military academy, gets a hearing in unqualified approval of the practice. He was hazed, and regards it as one of the most valuable experiences of his life. So there it is again.

The Kansas City Star says it is no longer necessary to go clear into the middle of a thing to demonstrate a point. A man was robbed of $10 just standing in front of a restaurant.

The New York Herald contributes to the stories about Shipping Board methods the detail that it cost $161 to put an 82-cent hinge on a galley door; but that truth compels the admission that not more than two men were detailed to keep the hinge oiled.

The Boston Transcript, taking account of the number of investigations that are in progress, notes the appearance that an abnormal number of Americans are being pointed, flayed and grilled; and it might have added, without very serious results to them in the finals. The probe used to be a considerable instrument, but lately it has come to be regarded more as a joke.

Experience in a presidential cabinet sometimes turns out to be disappointing and thankless; but the man who succeeds Postmaster General Cullen ought not to find it difficult to earn money, especially if his achievements go by comparison.

It is evident that American troops saw the weary side of soldiering in Europe—the fact that 70,000 of them were gassed. It is considered that the use of gas is likely to become a recognized method of warfare. It is stated that fifteen thousand chemists have been enrolled, ready to enter service at a moment's notice, and in the meantime are pushing research to find a deadly gas, and a more effective mask.

MARK TWAIN AND HENRY ADAMS ABROAD.

Mark Twain did his best to mock the worshiping spirit of American travelers in the Old World. To gey the eleventh by yawning before masterpieces; to conduct exploring expeditions in search of the German verb; to compose an ad for the Coliseum, announcing no expense spared in an absolutely fresh line of martyrs and tigers, and positively no free list except to the press—this was more than the humor of audacity. It was a reaction against the traditional tourist.

Henry Adams in 1895 traversed the route of the "Innocents Abroad." In his newly published "Letters to a Son" he shows himself to have reached much the same as Mark's conclusions. He found Parnassus full of "Auricularia," and that all been to Jerusalem or are going there, and whose knowledge of the scriptures is encyclopedic. It gives me quite a tired feeling to hear them talk. At Babel he welled indignation at those who would not say "that the place is a fraud" and wish to be home. One might timidly called the dreary desert "disappointment," and Adams was shocked at the way his consort pounced upon this self-evident truth. "Edmund, this will become a habit. It is a bad one. It is cancer. You must check it in time. I am not disappointed." Even then, concludes Adams, "she resorted to a long entry in her diary to relieve her self-respect."

There was a substantial identity between the source of Mark Twain's and of Henry Adams' condemnation of perverish sight-seeing. Mark Twain knew there was humbug in it. He felt that the Italian guide before a Raphael turned the stock on his transports with an accurate instinct of tips. The schoolmaster jotting down her impressions of Paestum was only following the orders of the guide books and the accepted critics. Adams thought of humbug, too, in the sense of the incapacity of the sightseeing crowd. He himself might understand Charles or a favorite Shropshire abbey, but the vast majority prefers the Houses of Parliament and the State Department at Washington. Mark Twain had a lower estimate than Adams of mere refinement of taste as part of the human equipment, and a wider tolerance. His attitude is the pleasantest. But the Mississippi River pilot and the Back-Bay Brahmin agreed on one juncture—be genuine. Even before L. Peter's and the Aeroplane—be genuine!—New York Evening Post.

A SLIPPERY PROPOSITION.

THE TRAIL OF THE GYPSY

A Manhattan skyscraper in Khat-mandu, or a Ziegfeld revue in Chyenne, or a Broadway electric sign in Siam—all might be expected to attract attention. Conversely a gypsy band camped on Riverside drive was a nine days' wonder for New Yorkers. And many Washingtonians made a pilgrimage to a small gypsy tent up the Potomac. Other cities no doubt are paying their vicarious tribute to vagabonding, or having their fortunes told, as these wanderers, according to their custom, follow the setting sun.

"Despite the rumors that Juan Sanchez Vargas, the Spanish gypsy chief, is thinking of calling a conference of gypsies of all lands for the purpose of uniting them, one wonders whether such a union can ever be accomplished in view of the history and characteristics which the intriguing wanderers have always displayed," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

To think of the dark-eyed maiden with roving berries in her hair and the picturesque young man of the crimson girdle and red plush waistcoat, who trades his horses and steals our chickens, living in a neat little house in a gypsy kingdom or democracy stretches even a fantastic imagination. For centuries these people, in reality, as well as in story books, have followed over and under the world the little bunches of leaves or grass which form their pattern leading to the gypsy-alone-knows-where.

"George Borrow relates that the first gypsies made their appearance in Moldavia in 1417, and no one seems to be very certain about whence they came. The original 2000 increased to formidable proportions in a century or two, and Maria Theresa and Joseph II tried to civilize them, with no success.

"In the early days each little band had a captain whom they honored with the title of Count. To secure the coveted position this leader had to be valiant and courageous in the pilfering expeditions for food and gaudious and crafty enough to settle their disputes. For this he was allowed a third of anything that the band stole.

"Despite their marauding tendencies, and their more or less contemptuous attitude toward people not of the blood, they have a code of morals which contains many excellent requirements. A true gypsy must not have a quarrelsome disposition, and he never reveals the secrets of the brotherhood. Though they make the rest of mankind their lawful prey, they are capable of great sacrifices for each other. They pledge themselves never to marry out of their own sect, nor will they teach their language to anyone not a gypsy by blood or adoption.

"Their daredevil spirit perhaps has had a passing influence on most of the countries in which these wanderers have lived. At least England is accredited with having contracted her love of horse racing from them, and they are nearly always to be found among her jockeys and in attendance upon her Derbys.

"These might-be children of Cain or the wandering Jew are among the most beautiful races in the world in their youth. Their complexions are dark with a warm rich color underneath, their faces are oval, their features regular, and their bodies like and graceful. But the exposure to sun, wind, sleet and snow in a short time so transforms them into hideousness that a beautiful youth

About YOUR HEALTH

Why You Should Think of Milk as Only Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., F. A. C. S.
Commissioner of Health, N. Y. City

In the great cities of the world, wherever the poor are crowded together, under-nourishment among the children is one of the problems of the day. The world war, with starvation rationing, has resulted in emaciation and under-development in parts of Europe. This is a fearful thing, for against tuberculosis may be turned into defeat, unless there is universal recognition of the danger and united action to prevent disaster.

In 1856 there started in America a good battle against the White Plague, tuberculosis—or consumption, as we used to call it. In 1886, in New York City, the death rate for tuberculosis was 38 persons out of every ten thousand of the population. Last year it was the lowest of any year in recorded history—13 per ten thousand of the population, or one-third of the appalling record of 34 years ago.

Eight thousand persons died from tuberculosis. Under the conditions of 1886, 24,000 would have died. In other words, 16,000 persons are alive and well today who would have died last year under the conditions of 1886. This is a wonderful record. What a pity if the economic conditions of today, the lack of proper food, and the housing conditions should renew the ravages of dread consumption!

Last year, to determine the degree of under-nourishment present, the New York City health department made a survey of a large number of the public schools. In certain quarters, particularly where many families dwell, the number of under-nourished children was very high. In one school it was 55 percent. This means that out of one hundred children examined, only fifteen find the weight, that their height and ages demand. Of course, a child might be underweight and still be healthy. The survey showed, however, that a very large percentage of these children were so under-nourished as actually to be in need of medical attention.

It was found that many of these children especially suffered from a lack of milk, in particular. The average consumption of milk in many families was less than a cup a day. There were several reasons for the denial to these children of the essential milk. Chief of them was the high cost then prevailing. The cost is even higher now.

It must be admitted, of course, that ignorance of the importance of milk was another cause that cannot be overlooked. Every mother should know that milk is just as essential to an infant and young as air and water. Milk is by no means a beverage, it is the basis of the diet of the child. On the contrary, it is a food more important to the child than meat, potatoes or any other vegetable. There is no substitute for milk. Cambric tea, milk tea or coffee, toast water, no one of these can take the place of milk.

RUNAWAY GIRL IS FOUND BY HER FOSTER MOTHER

Fears that harm had befallen her 15-year-old adopted daughter, Dorothy Grant, a high school teacher in Turlock, were dispelled when Miss June Grant of Turlock met the child at the police station this morning. A tearful meeting was followed by the explanation by Turlock M. Stephenson, employee of the Western Auto Stage Co., that the girl had been at the home of his mother, 341 Twenty-sixth street, since she came to Oakland with him last Monday.

Miss Grant, who adopted Dorothy several years ago, has made several fruitless trips to Oakland and San Francisco in her search for the child since her disappearance last Monday, and it was not until she was told by employee of the Western Auto Stage Co. that she was living at the Stephenson home that any trace of her was found.

When she left the home of Miss Grant, a high school teacher in Turlock, Dorothy left a note saying that she was eloping with a man named Ford, and that she would be stopping with her husband at the Hotel Terminal in San Francisco. Miss Grant hurried to San Francisco, but failed to find her at the hotel. However, she was later informed by another Turlock teacher that Dorothy had been seen on a Western auto bus in Oakland. Information about Stephenson was then obtained from other employees of the stage company.

According to the story told the police this morning by Dorothy and Stephenson, the girl boarded a stage driven by Stephenson at Turlock last Monday, saying that she was coming to San Francisco to see her husband. Later, Stephenson says that she confessed that she had no husband and was arranged to take her to the home of his mother, where she remained until located this morning.

Stephenson says that Dorothy told him she was 18 instead of 15 years old, and admitted they had planned to marry. However, Miss Grant protested that the child is still a minor and tenderly urged her to return with her to Turlock.

Body Believed That of Frison Escape

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 27.—A decomposed leg, believed to be from the body of Claude L. Berry, a negro prisoner three years ago, was found in a canal near the prison power house. The prison physician pronounced it the leg of a negro and Warden J. Smith contends it is proof of the belief that Berry was drowned while trying to swim the American river to freedom. Berry's body could not be recovered, although the river was dragged.

Navy Commander Praises Local Police

A compliment to Oakland's handling of the California recruiting passport, November 21, was received today by Mayor Davis from Commander Glassford, U. S. N., hero of the Shaw and active during the Oakland mass meeting to recruit for the new dreadnaught named after this state.

"In all my parade experience," says Glassford, "there has never been more complete and efficient police protection and control of traffic than was evidenced on that occasion."

Bar Will Proceed To Try Sullivan

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Accusations for disbarment of Police Judge John J. Sullivan will be filed in court at once and prosecution is to follow, according to the Bar Association of San Francisco. The statement was given out after a special meeting of the board of directors of the association. The charge is that the committee of the Bar Association has found evidence that Judge Sullivan had accepted bribes to "fix" court cases.

Congress to Be Asked to Spend Sum Sufficient to Develop Port's Facilities

With the approach of the opening of congress on December 6, the Harbor Development Committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce began today to take definite steps toward obtaining government appropriations for the improvement of the city's port facilities, both on the inner and outer harbors.

The amount to be sought will be much more than the $25,000 recommended by Major General Lansing Beach, chief of the army engineers, in his budget to Congress yesterday. Information coming to the Chamber of Commerce is to the effect that this sum is merely a routine amount, included to carry on further dredging in the inner harbor.

SHOW INDUSTRIAL GROWTH. To show the demand for improvement of the port facilities the Harbor Development Committee has gathered a large mass of data, showing the industrial growth of Oakland, both along the harbor front and in the immediate vicinity. These have been filed with the army engineers and also will be placed in the hands of Congressman J. A. Elston for his use in Washington. Elston will leave for the national capital on Monday.

The investigation of the Harbor Development Committee shows that since 1913, when the inner harbor was first begun to be made a real waterway by the government, the number of industries along that front has more than doubled, the increase being from 17 to 38. The waterfront industrial district also has grown from 4.5 miles to 9.5 miles. As one instance of the growth in only seven years, the committee says:

"In 1913 industrial plants fronting Oakland inner harbor were comparatively few, widely separated and of no great size in scope and operation."

"In 1920 the Moore & Scott Iron Works and the United Engineering Works have become respectively the Moore Shipbuilding Company and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, with the largest yards on the Pacific Coast and standing well up towards the head of the list of American shipyards."

The volume of the concerns located on the inner harbor report moving commodities in the fiscal year 1919-20 amounting to 2,000,000 tons, valued at nearly $27,000,000."

The committee then points out the industrial growth of Oakland, showing an increase in the value of exports from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000 and an increase in workers from 10,112 to 60,000.

That the water commerce of Oakland will be largely increased by better port facilities is argued, based on the following statements by manufacturers:

BITTER FACILITIES URGED. "United Iron Works—Would enable this concern to land pig iron and coke at water competitive rates, permitting the meeting of eastern prices."

Standard Brass Casting Company—Would permit us to cut some 400,000 pounds annually the cost of hauling export shipments to San Francisco."

Purification Companies, Inc.—This concern now has bargains in order to ship to San Francisco and reship to United States ports Japan, China, Australia, India and Hawaii."

Standard Brass Casting Company—Would permit us to cut some 400,000 pounds annually the cost of hauling export shipments to San Francisco."

Alas-Industrial Gas Engine Company—Our business is largely in the export of steam engines on account of canal not deep enough."

United Canneries Company—Would permit us to compete with San Francisco on f. o. b. vessel price."

Western Canning Company—Would secure for us business in Central and South America, Mexico, Honolulu and the Orient."

Estimates 1000 tons increased business annually from improved harbor.

Fagel Motors Company—A good hauler would save us between $18,000 and $25,000 annually. Our foreign trade would increase."

California Paint Company—On close profit articles for the Orient, we do not compete, export or receive, because cartage to San Francisco takes all profit."

The statement of the harbor development committee also sets forth that the swine bridges at Webster and Harrison streets are declared a hindrance to shipping by a number of concerns located on the inner harbor.

BARROWS SILENT ON RUMOR OF WILSON OFFER

U. of C. Head is Reported As Being Considered For Philippine Berth.

BERKELEY, Nov. 27.—"I'm not interested," said President David P. Barrows of the University of California, when asked today whether he was being considered for the post of governor-general of the Philippines.

Barrows' silence was interpreted as a denial of the report that he had been offered the position. That Dr. Barrows' trip to Washington, D. C., from which he returned yesterday, had any "political" significance, whatever was denied by university officials shortly after the president's departure from Berkeley last month.

It was explained at the time that the trip was being made by Dr. Barrows to attend two important university meetings and to confer with army authorities at Washington. D. C., concerning the university's military program.

While the president's office refuses in any way to discuss the report that Dr. Barrows is being considered for the post now held by Francis Burton Harrison, who has announced his intention of resigning as soon as a successor can be found, the story is given little credence by university circles. That Dr. Barrows has no desire for a political job and that his whole interests are tied up in the state university is an official statement of the campus.

Dr. Barrows' statement this morning is declared to indicate, moreover, that he has no desire for the honor he is being offered.

Conspiracy Charged in Divorce Suit

Allegations that her husband conspired with her to induce undue influence with a "rich friend" so that they could "bleed him for money," in an allegation of alleged conspiracy in a divorce complaint of Mary A. Sibley filed against Edward H. Sibley.

The plaintiff also alleges that while her husband was away from home he was in contact with a "rich friend" who was a "rich friend" of her husband's. The complaint was filed in the superior court of the county of Alameda, California, on November 21, 1920.

Petty Officer's Wife Sues For Divorce

That she struck her at a dance in their home at 2629 Market street, San Francisco, because she danced with other men, that he received letters from his wife in the navy, that he would have nothing to do with their baby because it was a girl, and that he joined the navy without her consent to "see the world," are the charges in a divorce suit against Petty Officer Jesse Lester H. Vance of the United States navy.

Miss Vance alleges that her husband called on her at a hospital where she lay ill, bringing with him a woman to whom he paid marked attentions during his visit. She says that he enlisted in the navy in December, 1919, instead of taking a $6.50 a day job that had been offered him to support his family.

Church Plans to Pay Off Mortgage

When St. Paul's church celebrates its golden jubilee, the parishioners plan to lift the mortgage which is placed against the house of worship. A Christmas dance is announced for Tuesday evening, December 28, as a means of contributing to the debt fund. A nickel dance will be staged at Hotel Oakland with Mrs. Daniel Crosby, as chairman of the general committee on arrangements which includes 50 prominent society women of the city, who will act as patronesses. Among them are Mesdames Harry East Miller, Frederick Sherman, Clifton Kroil, Harrison Clay, William Cavender, Frank M. Avery, Frederick Cutting, Raymond Perry, Charles Youngberg, Mailer Seales, Francis Shook, Wallace Alexander, A. A. Long, Philip Tuttle, Clay, Charles Duke, Vernon, Walter Newton Koser, Charles Peters, John Grissom, Charles Bates, Richard Kessler, Isaac Regue, Clarence Shuer, Maxwell Taft, Lillian Brown Everts, Misses Florine Brown and Gracie Taft.

Mrs. Harry East Miller will be in charge of the gateway. Dr. Charles Gross will be chairman of the floor committee. The Peter Pan club, Mrs. Emil Fritsch, leader, will assist in disposing of the tickets.

Mrs. Van Valkenberg Dies in Home Here

Mrs. Madona Van Valkenberg died this morning at her home, 1425 Ninth avenue. She is survived by two sons, Burt Van Valkenberg and H. Van Valkenberg, well known Berkeley manufacturers. Mrs. Van Valkenberg was born in Wisconsin. She was 62 years old. For the past 14 years she has resided in the East Bay.

The funeral will take place Monday at 2 p. m. from a Berkeley undertaking chapel.

RIDING SCHOOL PROTESTED.

More than fifty residents near Claremont and College avenues today tendered Commissioner Morse a protest against the establishment of the Robert Abernathy riding academy in that district. Abernathy, who has for years conducted his academy near the Hotel Claremont, has moved because his lease expires. A hearing before the city council will be the probable result of the petition.

Students Plan Campaign For Bathing Pool

MISS MARJORIE BOND.

Financial Conditions Fail To Dampen Enthusiasm of Berkeley Pupils.

BERKELEY, Nov. 27.—The fact that the bond market and other financial conditions have caused plans for a swimming pool to be eliminated from the proposed new Berkeley high school will not be sufficient to keep students from having the much-desired indoor plunge.

Under the leadership of Miss Marjorie Bond, president of the Girls' Association at the high school, plans for a campaign to raise the necessary money are now being made. Following the holiday season an active canvass will be started for funds.

The original plans for the new Berkeley high school provided for two swimming pools, one for boys and the other for girls. With the shrinking of money values this was cut to one with the final elimination of that latter plan to provide necessities in the high school building.

Estimates concerning swimming pool construction are being gathered by the students and will be submitted to the pupils with the opening of the campaign for funds in January. The project already has received the endorsement of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the high school and Principal C. L. Bied-

"We feel that a swimming pool is a real necessity at the high school," declares Miss Bond, who inspired the campaign for funds. "The students are practically unanimous in their desire for one and we expect no real difficulties in raising the money."

Husband Beats Wife To Divorce Court

Charging that his wife, Estelle K. Hale, sold their home, kept money he had given her for payments thereon and then deserted him, Daniel E. Hale by a few hours beat his wife in filing an application for divorce in the superior court here.

The divorce complaint that Mrs. Hale had prepared to file was attached to an affidavit of residence, and charges that her husband said "she was a good" that she could not "meet the requirements" and that he hosted of his association with other women.

They were married in Reno October 8, 1919.

Alameda Women to Sew For City's Poor

ALAMEDA, Nov. 27.—The women of the Matlack and Washington Parent-Teachers' clubs will meet in the sewing room of the Alameda Social Service board in the city hall for the purpose of making clothes for the poor children in Alameda. There are about 100 cases in this city, according to Mrs. Beulah Spain of the bureau.

The mothers of the Longfellow school have volunteered to take a work home with them, Mrs. Spain is inviting the women of Alameda who care to come to be present and assist in the sewing box.

2 'DREAM SUITS' CAN GO TO TRIAL IS JUDGE'S RULING

Leniency Shown Because the Plaintiff Found Insane and Restored. Had No Counsel

SUPERIOR Judge J. J. Trabucco has denied the motion of Attorney Donahue and Hynes to dismiss the two "dream suits" of Rasmus Albertsen, declared insane in 1912 and restored to sanity in 1916.

One of the suits against the Citizens' Bank of Fruitvale, now taken over by the Bank of Italy, to recover $2200 which Albertsen claims was deposited there for his use, but which the bank declares never has been received by it. The other is against W. J. Westlake in connection with a mortgage on Fruitvale property which Albertsen says was made in his favor by the former and foreclosed by the bank without right.

The suits were cited a number of years ago. The motion to dismiss was on the ground of lack of prosecution and the statute of limitations. Judge Trabucco said that if Albertsen had been represented by counsel throughout he would have granted the motion without question, but since he was in an insane hospital for several years and had been given improper advice he considered that more leniency should be exercised than in an ordinary case.

Albertsen showed by the records that there had been a mortgage in his favor, but these records subsequently were transferred to the bank by him. The court said this matter, as well as the question of whether the money referred to in the other suit ever was on deposit, was one of the issues in the actual trial of the case.

A demurrer to the complaint against the bank was sustained, with leave to amend. One filed in the Westlake suit was overruled.

Captain Brown is Sent to Camp Bragg

BERKELEY, Nov. 27.—Captain Stanley Bryan, well known University of California man, who has been stationed at Camp Dix, New York, since returning from overseas, has been transferred to Camp Bragg, North Carolina, according to word received here today.

Bryan's transfer is made in conjunction with the entire Fifth Field Artillery, Captain Paul Penney, and other officers of the Fifth Artillery, is stationed temporarily at the university. Captain Bryan is the grandson of Mrs. R. E. Fisk and a nephew of James E. Fisk, assistant rector of the faculties at the university.

Sinai Sisterhood to Honor New President

A complimentary supper and banquet will be given by the Sinai Sisterhood, 25th and Webster streets, this evening at 7 o'clock. A night at Reisenweber's New York Cafe will be enacted and Miss Royce Fraser and a score of attractive girls will participate. One of the features will be the interpretative dancing of Master Toyce Fraser of Alameda. He will interpret the dances of famous dancers and is but 12 years old. Master Fraser will be accompanied by Miss Vivienne Tweddie on the piano.

Chamber Directors Will Meet Dec. 1

ALAMEDA, Nov. 27.—The directors of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce will hold their December meeting next Wednesday night in the council chambers in the City Hall building. The meeting will be a social one and the Thanksgiving holiday during the latter part of November, the second meeting for this month was postponed.

Don't Beat Up Cook Even If Steak Is Slow!

BERKELEY, Nov. 27.—Even if he does have to wait twenty-five minutes for a steak to be fired such an incident is not sufficient cause for a customer to beat the cook, so Judge Robert Edgar ruled yesterday.

John Voros, proprietor of a restaurant at 2120 Shattuck avenue, won his freedom as a result of the judge's ruling. Voros had been accused by Albert C. Cronin, 1321 Parker street, of beating him with a chair and threatening his life and that of his wife and baby with a butcher knife. The alleged attack took place, Cronin declared, after he had waited twenty-five minutes for an order and was indignantly leaving the place.

Witnesses to the argument declared in court yesterday that Cronin struck the first blow in the dispute and that Voros picked up the chair in self-defense. There was no knife in evidence, they said.

"The defendant is dismissed," ruled the court. "Food is not so important that blows should be struck over it."

BANDITS' VICTIM FLEES TO S. F. FROM BERKELEY

BERKELEY, Nov. 27.—E. A. Morris, 2412 Russell street, returning home from San Francisco late last night, was accosted by a strange man at Ellsworth and Oregon streets.

"Do you carry a gun?" asked the stranger.

"What do you want to know for?" stammered Morris. Morris gave a look around and saw a second man hiding behind a tree.

It was then, he told the police several hours later, that he started to run. The nearest thing to safety Morris saw was a Southern Pacific train bound for San Francisco. He leaped aboard and rode back across the bay before the police could find him. The police were unable to find any trace of the strangers.

Court Asked to Set Aside Assignment

Charles L. Pryal, who filed a document with Judge E. C. Robinson a few days ago charging that City Tax Collector W. M. Fitzmaurice gave him false information in reference to taxes on an estate and that the district attorney's office of this county under his direction had sent a man to prison through a "frame-up" has sued Attorney Walter E. Dorn to have set aside an assignment of one-fourth of his interest in the estate of his brother, the late William A. Pryal.

Pryal claims that he made the assignment on Dorn's advice after his wife, Helen W. Benson, had secured a divorce and when he owed her $1140 alimony. He says Dorn urged that in order to prevent an attachment on his share in the estate he should assign one-fourth of his interest to Dorn and then, through someone else. He declares there was no consideration for the assignment. Pryal says his interest in his brother's estate amounted to one-fourth. The estate is worth $32,000.

LOTTIE GRUNSKY, VETERAN STATE EDUCATOR, DIES

Passing of Noted Stockton Teacher Follows Sudden Illness on Train.

News of the death of his aunt, Miss S. Lottie Grunsky, veteran California educator, on an Overland train in Texas, was received today by C. E. Grunsky Jr. of 1047 Argonne avenue.

C. E. Grunsky Sr., prominent engineer of San Francisco, was a brother.

Miss Grunsky's death, according to the messages, was due to sudden illness on the train which was carrying her with Mrs. J. M. Grunsky of Stockton to spend the holidays in Mexico City. Her body was held at Laredo.

Miss Grunsky, who was 67 years old and resided in Stockton, had made a visit to Oakland three weeks ago and was then in apparent excellent health. She had retired from the Stockton schools two years ago, after long service as a teacher and notable activity in state and county teachers' institutes.

The death was the third sudden one to occur in the family within the past few years. Frank Powers, San Francisco attorney, whose death occurred on November 15 after an illness of but six days, having been a brother-in-law. Another member of the family, aged mother of a near relative of Miss Grunsky, died in Fresno a few days ago.

Relatives here today had not been advised of arrangements for the return of the body of Miss Grunsky, but it was believed the funeral would be held at the home in Stockton.

Sister of C. E. Grunsky, Otto and Carl Grunsky of Stockton and Herman Grunsky of New York are surviving brothers, and Mrs. H. A. Fisk, Monrovia, and Mrs. William Murray, Los Angeles, are sisters.

Miss Grunsky was revered by all Stockton, the majority of whose residents at some time or other had come under her tutorage. Every one of the new public schools was named after her as a mark of honor and the regard the authorities had for the educator.

MORSE DECLARES BOOZE PROBE IS TO BE THOROUGH

Commissioner Says Higher Police Officials Were Not Aware of Traffic.

Oakland's police "booze ring" investigation is being held in solution pending the reports of certain persons whose investigation has been extended, according to a statement by Commissioner Morse today in which he announced progress, but had no further specific information.

Morse also spoke of various "tips" and messages which have been sent into his office from various sources since the probe began.

"It is not a good policy to give credence to messages of this sort, especially anonymous ones," he said, "but we are overlooking nothing which may give light on the subject."

MORE SECRECY NOW
The revelation that federal officials are cooperating in the probe has given certain persons food for thought, in the opinion of the commissioner.

"I doubt if the liquor-selling operations are quite as open as they are said to have been formerly," he commented.

"On the possible fate of Chief of Police Lynch, over whose head Morse conducted the present investigation, caused Morse to intimate indirectly that the present matter is not to be a cause for a change in the head of the police force. City hall rumor has been wagging on this subject for several days.

NATURALLY GUARDED
"I consider Captain Wallman a very efficient police officer," said Morse. "And I presume he is as alert as any other police officer I know of. If the chief was asleep as to this alleged 'booze ring' Wallman was asleep, and I do not believe either knew of the matter. I believe it was one of those episodes which the most alert officer might not be able to see. Such a traffic would naturally be conducted in a guarded manner."

Action is expected this afternoon in the probe, it is said, when further reports come in.

Norma Gardiner Goes Back to State School

It has been determined by state officers that Norma Gardiner, 2044 Franklin street, Oakland, who has been held in Los Angeles following knowledge of the chief was asleep as to this alleged "booze ring" Wallman was asleep, and I do not believe either knew of the matter. I believe it was one of those episodes which the most alert officer might not be able to see. Such a traffic would naturally be conducted in a guarded manner."

Until yesterday, Mrs. Gardiner, aged and a cripple, had expected her daughter to come home. When she learned that Norma was to go to Ventura she collapsed. Norma first entered Ventura school three years ago to break the influence which an Arizona woman had gained over her.

Ng Ka Py Drought Distresses Chinatown

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—So long as it is a matter of uncertainty whether Ng Ka Py is a beverage or a medicine, just so long will Chinatown have alternate periods of flood and drought. The latest decision is that the stuff violates the prohibition law and follows close on the heels of an order that its sale may be permitted. As a result Chinatown celebrated the lifting of the lid for a few days and now is bemoaning the newest dry order.

Gloomy 'Gent' Adds to Woe Of Motorist

Peter R. Wadell is a man with a grievance. He is searching for a tall gloomy looking gentleman with a bandage on his nose, in whom he placed his confidence today at a cost of $10.

Wadell was due to be haled before Judge George L. Samuels on a charge of violating the motor vehicle act by leaving his car in a prohibited parking area Wednesday he had been arrested and was to appear today to recover his $10 bail money as it was his first offense.

So bright and early Wadell was waiting in front of Judge Samuels' court for the session to begin. Finally, about 8:50 he got impatient.

"Say," he asked the gloomy personage who was idling about the corridor, "ain't the judge coming down today?"

"Sure," returned the personification of mirth, "but he's gonna hold court in the City Council chambers. Better go up there and wait."

Wadell went and waited. At 11:45, after council was over and his name had not been called, he went to the desk sergeant in wrath.

"How long does a man have to wait here until his case is called," he asked in indignation.

Then he found out that court was over several hours ago and that as he failed to put in an appearance, his bail money had been forfeited. Hence the search and grievance.

OAKLAND BANKS GIVE TO CHARITY

Three banks of Oakland have made the first large gifts toward the Christmas party for the several hundreds of patients at the county infirmary and Arroyo sanitarium which is being arranged for by the Alameda county hospitals committee. The Central National, the First National and the Oakland Bank of Savings have each contributed $100 to the substantial budget which is needed to provide gifts and sweets and all the "fixings" traditional for the Yuletide.

The finance committee members: Joseph R. Knowland, chairman; Joseph F. Carlston, Fred W. Poss, Harry Anderson, J. Cal Ewing, William Nat Friend, J. Clement Aoy, Herman Johnson, Charles L. Smith, Bob Shand, C. R. Grimmett, Thos. Bridges, W. J. Hamilton, D. C. Dalton, Max Horwinski, A. S. Lavenston, Fred Kohn, Rodney H. Marchant, I. H. Spurr, Harry Bell, Geo. Dby, Arthur Moore.

Those wishing to make donations, either large or small, toward making Christmas more near a merry one at the infirmary and the tuberculosis sanitarium, are asked to send their gift to E. P. Garrison, county auditor and treasurer of the federation, at the hall of records, Oakland, Cal. J. B. Schaffert is chairman of the general committee in charge of the holiday celebration. W. T. Curtis is acting as secretary.

"Cut Out" Slang, Pleads U. C. Prof.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Professors and others attending the sessions of the Philological Association at the Pacific Coast resumed their sessions at the Plaza Hotel today with an extensive program. Dr. Robert P. Uiter of the University of California, in his address before the delegates assailed the use of slang. He declared that some slang comes into the language as good usage, much passes without leaving a trace and other words and phrases always remain slang. Much slang, he said, cannot be used by polite persons without damaging their reputations.

INVENTOR USES ODD DEVICE TO ASSIST SUICIDE

Bottle is Suspended to Drop Chloroform On Mask Over His Face.

His ingenuity maintained even when he sought death Thomas E. Moat, 48 years old, an inventor living at 1605 Chestnut street, was found dead in bed by his wife as she returned for work in a downtown store.

Suspended from a nail in the ceiling above his head by a cord hung a bottle of anaesthetic, inverted. Through a notch in the cork, plugged with a whittled match, dropped slowly and steadily the chloroform which saturated a mask of cloth which covered Moat's face.

Police men found the death machine still dropping its four drops a minute, but Moat was long since passed from his troubles.

The inventor had been ill for months and unable to work and was bitterly despondent because he had to depend upon his wife. He had, Mrs. Moat said, threatened to end his life. How carefully that plan was laid the death room with its dripping bottle today told.

Ruling in Justice Court is Sustained

Judgment of the Superior Court of Alameda county in the case of F. W. Engelken against the Justice Court of Eden township and W. J. Gannon, Justice of the peace, has been upheld in the District Court of Appeals.

The decision means that a Justice court has the right to relieve a party from payment of a judgment by default when it is shown that judgment was taken against him by mistake, inadvertence, or through excusable neglect. The case at issue involved the delivery by Manual Parla of a $100 pony.

The notice of default payment was mailed to Parla with the surname misspelled and was returned undelivered. It was shown that Parla had complied with all of the court orders.

New Sewer Will Be Laid in Broadway

Built in 1875, the old sewer along Broadway from Eighth to Twelfth street is now in a state of collapse and an ordinance will be introduced in the City Council Monday for the construction of a new one, work to be completed by next spring.

The old 12-inch concrete pipe has been so litten with acids that the concrete is porous and broken, with many leaks. Complaints have been received lately from property owners whose cellars have been endangered. The new sewer will be mainly of 14-inch construction, according to plans drawn by City Engineer George Mattis.

W. P. Move Puzzles Property Owners

The Western Pacific railroad has set a precedent by withdrawing protests against the opening and widening of East Twelfth street, and property owners who were preparing protest, are now, it is said, considering whether to change their minds. The property owners fear large assessments to pay the cost of the extension of Twelfth street. The Western Pacific, the largest of the property owners, did not explain why it withdrew the protest, but it is believed the precedent may start others to withdraw their protests.

MILK PRICES DROP.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—The price of milk to Philadelphia consumers will be reduced two cents a quart December 1, when the retail price will become 13 cents.

Playgrounds of City Now Used By Older Folk

A survey of the recreation department, with recommendations for proposed improvements was tendered the city clerk today by Efficiency Expert N. W. Cook.

The survey points to improved methods of handling the business of the Lake Merritt bathhouse, and to make suggestions concerning future expansion.

"The playground department," says Cook, "has departed in a way from its original purpose. It is catering more and more to older folk. That is very well and highly desirable so long as the original purpose of juvenile play be not overlooked."

The playground department is now in reality the city amusement department. It is serving a worthy purpose, which must be served by some department, and most naturally by this one, but in doing so questions of jurisdiction and finances are naturally raised, which must be met.

"In a case of money to expend, the department is pledged to remember its primary task of giving playground facilities to the children of Oakland."

SCHOOL WILL BE BUILT IN UNITS

The new Webster school building to be erected at Piedmont boulevard and Eighty-second avenue, will be built in units. The first will accommodate 200 pupils in five rooms, will cost $50,000 and will be erected in four months.

The plans which have been completed by C. W. Dickey, city architect, and Marston Campbell, superintendent of construction, for the board of education, provide for five other units and a general auditorium to seat 500. The total cost based on present estimates is expected to be about $300,000.

Five acres of ground on which the school will stand will be laid out in shrubbery and playgrounds. The architecture of the school is to be Spanish with a stucco exterior and all rooms will have an eastern exposure.

Cincinnati Expert Named As Speaker

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Dr. Helen Thompson Woolley, expert in child psychology and hygiene, director of the Cincinnati bureau for children and the vocational bureau in the Cincinnati public schools will be one of the 150 speakers who will address the four-day convention of the California State Conference of Social Workers here beginning February 22. Dr. Woolley was formerly in charge of the psychological work of the Bureau of Education in the Philippine Islands.

Dr. Martin A. Myer is president of the conference. The program is being arranged by Miss Lucy Stebbins, dean of women, University of California. The State Commission of Immigration and Housing formally announced the convention dates this week.

HILLS FAVORED AS PLAYGROUNDS FOR CHILDREN

Recreation Expert Challenges Women to Name the Juveniles' Hero.

Hundreds of children along the Oakland waterfronts never set to the hills surrounding the city, according to Jay B. Nash, director of the recreation department, speaking before Oakland Center, California Civic League, at Hotel Oakland, yesterday afternoon. The boy and girl, according to Nash, are caught between the millstones of society more than any others and are practically helpless.

"If you want to train the five worst citizens in California put them in a basketball team for two years and show them how to get away with bad practices," advised the recreational expert. "On the other hand, to train the five best citizens in California, put them in a basketball game and teach them to observe with honor all the rules," he said.

Nash challenged the women to know what sort of person was directing the play of the young folk of the city and who was to them the hero of their leisure.

That family team work was out of date; that the last thing parents did was to tell their boys and girls their financial problems, and that it was so easy to buy entertainment that the instinct to play was being wiped out, was asserted before the civic workers.

Nash showed a series of stereopticon slides depicting scenes and pageants in the Oakland playgrounds.

Eighteen Boy Scouts Proud Wearers of Badges of Honor

As a result of the November session of the Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts, eighteen boys today were wearing merit badges. In addition five more boys had become first class Scouts. The court, composed of Judge George Samuels, George H. Harris, Chief Elliott Whitehead, A. P. Leach, Joseph Rosborough and A. C. Hibbard met in Judge Samuels' court room.

The following scout appeared before the court and received first class honors: Merle Basham, Jack Ellasas, Gordon Borden, Richard Lewis and Gerald Desmond.

The Scouts who received merit badge honors were: Curtis Day, pioneering; Gilman Plunkett, pioneering; Frank Samuels, cycling; Hillock Gubrielsen, forestry; Earl Matthiessen, conservation; cooking; Albert Gorie, first aid; firemanship; conservation; camping; William Mary, marksmanship; Harold Corbin, swimming; art firemanship; George Fernand, cooking; Harleigh O'Brien, athletics; swimming; safety first; Raymond Bailey, conservation; pioneering; swimming.

Herbert Wise, safety first; firemanship; Robert Peiser, firemanship; Raymond Kennedy, firemanship; Jimmie Tyson, automobile; firemanship; Harold Chastain, hiking; William Oliver, swimming; Roderick Peterson, marksmanship.

Tonight in Hall B, civic auditorium, the opening session of the non-commissioned officers' training course for the Boy Scouts will be held. This school is conducted for patrol leaders, assistant patrol leaders, scribes and troop officers in the various units of the Boy Scout in this city.

There will be another session of the course in leadership which the Boy Scouts of America are offering to all men interested in boy problems.

EVENING AT HOTEL OAKLAND.
The topic of the "Troop Committee," which is the executive committee of every troop, will be presented by Commissioner Lilbier. A demonstration by Eagle Scoutmaster A. H. Meyers, assisted by Eagle Scouts Fred Sibley, Harold Chastain and Charles Keeler will be presented.

Children will not be used in promoting the street sales of the 1920 Christmas seals conducted by the Alameda County Tuberculosis Society, according to the announcement of H. C. Capwell, campaign director in Oakland. Capwell objects to such practice on the grounds of injurious effect on character development and has so notified his district chairman.

In a special plea, volunteers for adults to man the downtown booths, where the holiday stacks are being offered are called for.

Seventy-five patients at Arroyo Sanitarium, near Livermore, were provided with Thanksgiving dinners and cheer by the local tuberculosis society. The convalescents were assembled in the big dining hall while the bed patients were moved to the pavilion and several from gaily decorated tables. A Thanksgiving party was arranged for the evening with popcorn and games special features.

Dr. Chesley Bush and the staff of nurses carried out the holiday program.

BEAUTY TO GIVE WAY TO NECESSITY CONTENDS HAGAN

City Attorney Explains New Ordinance On Garages On Park Borders.

Aesthetic considerations and admiration for the beautiful have no standing when it comes to necessity, says City Attorney Hagan concerning the campaign against the construction of unsightly garages in the neighborhood of Lakeside park.

Hagan has prepared an ordinance which prohibits the erection of garages within 100 feet of a public park and the ordinance will come before the city council soon for ratification. The ordinance is drawn on the theory of protection of the public against fire and explosions in garages. That is a sound basis for the exercise of the police power. Esthetic considerations alone cannot be made the basis of exercising the power to restrict the use of private property. Esthetic considerations are regarded as a matter of luxury and indulgence and not necessary, and it is necessary to justify the exercise of the police power to restrict the use of private property.

Edward F. Kraft's Funeral Held Here

The funeral of Edward Frank Kraft, retired banker who had lived for several years at Hotel Oakland, was held this afternoon from a local undertaking parlor. Kraft died in Sacramento on Thanksgiving Day. While on his way to Red Bluff to visit his old home he suffered a paralytic stroke seven weeks ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kraft of Red Bluff. Two sisters, Miss Nettie Kraft and Mrs. Peter Garret, and a brother, Gustave Kraft, survive. Kraft was 65 years old.
